and do not desire further compensation."

Officer Pinchot, Republican candidate for governor, said:
"Senator Vane was a man who, once encountered, could never be forgotten. He was distinguished by an unusual force of character, 'knew' circumstances and an absolute fidelity to his principles, once given. He always kept his word."

"His rise to the position he held in public as head of one of the most effective organizations in America was a remarkable tribute to his ability which had put him there from humble beginnings. His executive capacity was one of his most conspicuous characteristics."

"Senator Vane supported woman suffrage and many other progressive measures. I remember with keen satisfaction that I had his personal assurance of his support for my program. I quoted heavily on his help."

Senator Pepper sent the following telegram to Mrs. Vane:
"Senator Vane filled a place in this community which nobody else is likely to fill. His friends are feeling the shock of a great personal loss. All this, however, is insignificant when compared with your own bereavement. Permit me to express my profound sympathy."

He also sent a telegram to Congressman Vane expressing sympathy.

HAPPINESS

HAPPINESS consists of wanting something and working to get it. Every normal human being has dreams of the future, looking forward to the attainment of things beyond his present reach.

Most of our wants are material; they are expressed in the desire for a home and other comforts, for travel and financial independence. Money is necessary to secure them.

Dreams become realities with the accumulation of money. People who have bank accounts are on the road to getting what they want.

COKERS DOWNED BY WASHINGTON; SHOW BEST FORM OF YEAR

Score at End of First Half Is 6-0; Final Result, 30-0.

LOCALS TWICE THREATENED

Connellsville High School went down to a 30-0 defeat before the Washington High outfit Saturday afternoon, but the fans went away perfectly satisfied with what they had seen and the players are being given a glad hand even in defeat. There was lots of room for criticism and this was spoken openly, but on the other hand, the Orange and Black warriors put up such a wonderful defense in the first half of the game that the weakening in the second half was easily overlooked.

Even the most optimistic fans suffered a drop in spirit when they saw the Washingtonians trot onto the field. The men were all big and towered over the Cokers. The visiting aggregation looked very much like the Connellsville Tornadoes in size. Then Connellsville demonstrated its grit and pluck. Following the kickoff the Blue and Black gridders started a goalward march. Suddenly it halted when the locals laid and then another kind of march started. By dint of steady plugging and the veriest effort of every man on the team the Cokers pushed their heavy antagonists back. It was a new experience for the visitors. Never before this season has a first down been made against it by an opponent was the claim made at Fayette Field Saturday. Connellsville made plenty of them.

Twice in the first half the locals threatened to score, pushing the ball to the 10 and 13 yard lines respectively. There the greater strength of the visiting outfit told and by no effort could the locals gain sufficient ground to cross the final line.

Washington made a single touchdown in the first half. It came in the final quarter. Day plunged through the line, evaded the secondary defense and ran for 26 yards across the goal. Dillard failed in his attempt to kick the goal.

"Summer" Neid, who made history at Wilkinsburg by picking up a fumble and scoring after a 60-yard run, making the first and only victory for the Cokers over that team, also repeated Saturday. Washington attempted a forward pass and Neid, playing in the secondary defense, intercepted it. Rullit, crossing the field at a fast clip to break up the play in case the ball reached the Washington back, was unable to stop quickly enough and Neid tripped over his foot. There was a clear field ahead and Connellsville would have had a touchdown but for that. Neid intercepted a forward pass in the third quarter also, saving a possible score by so doing. He was very close to the goal line when the play was broken up.

To individually give credit for hard playing in Saturday's game is impossible. Connellsville's gridders showed themselves to have gotten over their pettish differences and played as one unit, with a single purpose in view. The only mark on the playing of some of the team was a tendency to again begin high tackling. The dummy will come in for a share of time this week.

Washington High has a powerful team. Connellsville fans rate it even higher than Greensburg and believe that the locals will fare better at the Westmoreland county seat next Saturday than they did with the college city outfit.

Washington fans here with the team said the Cokers were the first outfit this season to score a first down against their team. In the first half alone the locals made six while it kept Washington busy to make seven.

The line-up:
Connellsville—A. Washington—30.
Neid L. E. Langst
Shaw L. T. Worling
Pierce L. G. Ashbaugh
Yow C. Greed
Enos R. G. Ashmore
Lowmyer R. T. Martin
Rullit R. E. Dillard
Whitkey Q. B. Williams
George L. H. Day
McCormick R. H. Banks
Wilhelm F. B. Drury
Substitutions For Connellsville:
Gille for Pierce; Cunningham for Rullit; Edmunds for Enos; Martella for Edmunds; Dodson for Shaw; Rusnick for Wilhelm; Wilhelm for George. For Washington, Berry for Ashbaugh; Vance for Williams.
Touchdowns—Banks, 2; Drury, 2; Day.
Points after touchdown—None.
Referee—Herwick.
Umpire—Metzger.
Head Linesman—Schaeffer.

Dale Whitkey, captain of Connellsville High, received a severe bruising in the last few minutes of play when he was twisted while attempting a tackle. The muscles at the neck and in the abdomen were badly wrenched. At first it was reported he had a broken rib but Whitkey, seen on his way to school this morning, said the exact nature of the injury had not been determined. It does not pain him very much.

The Washington team put its greatest strength into smashing line drives and criss-cross end runs in the second half. The weight of the attack overpowered the smaller locals.

After the demonstration in the first half Saturday, Connellsville fans are ready to stand by the C. H. S. to the end of the season.

It is a cinch Greensburg won't have a cinch Saturday afternoon.

The Dunbar Township High School football team lost to Mount Pleasant township Saturday afternoon at Trotter. The score was 7-0.

East Huntingdon High eleven defeated Swedestown Friday afternoon, 26-0.

Latrobe defeated Uniontown High at Uniontown Saturday afternoon, 10-0.

South Union Township lost to Redstone at Continental Saturday, 6-0.

Special Announcement

Two things we set out to do—the result is a triumph of merchandising energy and enterprise, the greatest accomplishment of the past seasons. First, we sought a definite improvement in fabric quality and tailoring with style that is truly new. Second, we forced the issue of lower prices with all the vigor and determination in our power.

Conditions were also in our favor in reaching our aims—only last week, on account of the temporary slump in wholesale clothing sales due to the warm weather, we went to Eastern markets and were able to purchase from the over-crowded manufacturers' stocks good high-grade clothing at extremely low prices.

This is the result

The fall suits and overcoats assembled here now are enough to please the most exacting style enthusiast. Without going to extremes, these handsome models instantly impress you as a style convention that is distinctly new and different.

The prices are down—way down. They provide maximum value, the greatest measure of quality we have been able to offer in several years. With the earnest support and generous co-operation of the makers, we are able to offer are top-coats in English Tweed. They are smart in every detail, with their raglan shoulders, wide sleeves (that can't miss a frock) and warm roomy collars. You will find them indispensable for morning and general wear. Other desirable coats come in pretty Tweed mixtures. You'll not be able to fully realize their comfort and charm until you've tried one on. Coat prices begin as low as $10—the English Tweeds are being featured at—$35.00Wolf! Wolf!

No fur trimming is more becoming or more popular, this season, than the ever adorable "Wolf." Especially when it joins forces with one of the soft, happy woolsens—Pamela, Arabelle, Coraline or Gerona. When you favor wolf you are doubly fortified against the wiles of the weather and the disapproval of fashion. Dressy models, wolf trimmed, are here in gay profusion. Their prices are certainly doesn't mean without charm. The season's cloth coats ably prove it. They are exquisitely rich in style and fabric with collars that may be drawn up about one's neck to the total exclusion of winter chill. Tunesian is a new brown tone. Burgundy is the color of rare old wine. Many a model is caught a bit to the side by a bright metallic clasp. The materials are deep pile and luxurious. You'll love them! These smart models, combining durability with distinction are priced—

$75—$95—$125Without Trimming

$49.75—$75—$95Velvet Soft—

is the watch word of fashionable coat materials. It thrills you even to touch them. Ormamentale, a new-comer in fabrics, is trimmed with caracul. Osiris is blended with Perslan Lamb. Lambtex, a very new fabric fur, takes to itself a great wolf collar. And when such fabrics unite with such furs in a manner approved of fashion you have a creation that cannot help but bring joy to every woman's heart. They can meet the demands of any clothing allowance at—

$29.75—$95 to $175Dame Fashion's Latest Story Is Told in Stunning Frocks

SHE DEVOTES one chapter to the soft cascading blues of the new draperies. Another to the refreshing change from short to ankle skirt lengths. A third to a tale of sleeves, which cease to be short or no sleeves at all to reappear, long in length, and vivified with braid and embroideries in self or peasant colors.

The rest of the book is given over to how these new modes will become you. There can be no doubt about it. They are glorifying woman-kind.

Trim little frocks in Poirer Twill that should be working in an office or teaching school offer you one of the season's better values. They are quite carefully made; their material is durable and they have good sense enough to be appealing to the eye.

$9.95

Brown jersey. A modish collar finished with silken braid. A trig leather belt. —Tricoline. A vestee effect and gay sleeve lining of scarlet Canton. A bright Japanese plaque at one's girdle. Those are the style notes you may expect to find should you come here seeking a frock at—

$15.00

Here's a model flaunting a new star edged collar (in navy Poirer Twill, by the way) that has the good grace to trim itself with cire braid and a clever petal girdle. Two piece costumes in mohawk and navy jersey unite an overblouse effect, curiously embroidered, with pleated skirt.

$19.75

Modes for misses—and for matrons. Canton Crepe, Wool Crepe, Poirer Twill. Fashions for street wear or the affairs of an afternoon. (One of the cleverest has a velvet skirt and adorable bodice in figured blue Canton). No doubt you'll want two of them at

$25.00

Metallase, that intriguing puckered fabric, is the foundation of a popular style trend. It may appear as trimming at collar or on sleeves. It may serve as an attached panel. Or it may join forces with a twill fabric skirt and blouse itself in an utterly entrancing manner. All at—

$29.75

All the smarter for the holly-like beads that form four little ornaments where skirt meets bodice—is this charming mode in black Canton Crepe. Another pretty thing in a fine quality of Poirer Twill favors Persia in its embroideries. But two of the models we hold for you at—

$39.75

How envious eyes will turn your way when you have become the owner of this dream frock in brown Canton! Prettily pleated, front and back. Unusual ornaments at either hip. Distinctive! In another model, the glint of steel scintillates from the banding that forms most of its sleeves. At

$45.00

Roshanara Crepe comes in a bowing in a semi-tailored frock that is something to wish for. For the large woman there's black Canton with a daring girdle that helps to slenderize, aided and abetted by two pleated panels hanging at either side. Both are proud representatives of our showing at—

$49.75

The final tableau presents a model with sleeves slashed very nearly from the shoulder and lined in vibrant mohawk Canton. They snap together—cuff-like—at one's wrist. Fine Poirer Twill appears in a model for large women. Two of the many creations we feature at—
